MONTHLY PUBLICATION OF ANAN

Dr. Kayode Olushola Fasua, FCNA

FROM THE CEO'S DESK

t is indeed a great delight to write this piece, my very first as the Chief Executive Officer of our great Association

Let me begin by appreciating the Almighty God for making this happen. I must also deeply appreciate the President and Chairman of Council of our dear Association as well as the entire Council for finding me worthy to serve the Association in this capacity at this point in time.

I would also like to use this opportunity to thank the wonderful members of staff at the headquarters. The overwhelming reception I received was indeed warm, and you have all been very supportive since my assumption of office on the 1st of April, 2022. This has of course made it very easy for me to settle in within the shortest possible time. Many thanks also to my predecessor for contributing immensely towards the growth and development of the Association during his four-year sojourn as Chief Executive Officer. We all wish him well in all his future endeavours.

Interestingly, the first quarter of the year is gone and we have just begun a new quarter. So much still needs to be achieved, particularly in the area of professional development of members in all its ramifications. We shall adopt a business-like approach to all our plans and programs for the year in line with our core mandate and of course subject to necessary approvals by the Governing Council. We will leave no stone unturned as we strive to reposition ANAN for the challenges ahead amid disruptive and changing environment.

Take responsibility!

Thank you and God bless!

CORPORATE REPORTING VITAL FOR GOOD GOVERNANCE AND ACCOUNTABILITY - ANAN President

n enhancing good corporate governance and transparency in government and business engagements, Accountants have canvassed Corporate Reporting as an important mode of financial disclosure.

This was stated by the President of Association of National Accountants of Nigeria (ANAN), Rev. Canon Prof. Benjamin Chuka Osisioma during an interview on Monday 4th April, 2022 on Glory FM 97.1 Radio as part of the sidelines of the Association's Mandatory Continuing Professional Development (MCPD) programme in Yenagoa, Bayelsa State.

The President said economic dynamisms and impact on governmental and business fiscal management necessitates more comprehensive and analytical information and insights about financial performance, risks, opportunities, and long-term prospects. He noted that the MCPD programme is designed to upskill Accountants' capacity in providing broader scope of narrative disclosures, metrics, integrated thinking and informed decision-making for investors and stakeholders.

ANAN Chief Executive Officer, Dr. Kayode Olushola Fasua in his remarks said that good Corporate Reporting would boost Nigeria's investment climate, stop wastage and curb corruption in the country.

He further noted that good Corporate Reporting would enhance the integrity of Nigeria's business environment, foster public trust and confidence in the economy thus facilitating increased trade and investment.

ANAN PRESIDENT CALLS FOR IMPROVED LEVERAGE OF SUSTAINABILITY REPORTING TOOLS

With the increasing values of corporate reporting in engendering sustainable development, the President of Association of National Accountants of Nigeria (ANAN), Rev. Canon Prof. Benjamin Chuka Osisioma has canvassed the deployment of Sustainability Reporting Tools in evaluating operational efficiency and impact.

He revealed this on Tuesday, 5th April, 2022 at the opening ceremony of ANAN 2nd Session of 2022 Mandatory Continuing Professional Development (MCPD) programme in Bayelsa State.

As a viable means of disclosing information about organizational and governmental performance to stakeholders, the President advised Accountants to deploy the latest digital technologies in enhancing performance data, data integrity and data integration. The President commended the Executive Governor of Bayelsa State, Sen. Douye Diri represented by the Deputy Governor, Sen. Lawrence Ewhrudjapo for improving the lives of the people of Bayelsa State through massive infrastructural development.

In boosting Members' expertise, he said the Association is determined to continually explore latest digital utilities for optimal performance.

He stated that ANAN launched its digital hub at its 1st Session of MCPD programme in 2022 noting that the Association is determined to ensure the centralization and operationalization of its activities under a harmonized digital framework.

He further advised Accountants to consistently hone their capacities in corporate reporting for sustainable development.

ADOPTING DIGITAL EVOLUTION FOR VALUE DRIVEN ORGANISATION AFTER COVID-19 PANDEMIC BY FADARE SUNDAY DIRECTOR (MEMBERSHIP SERVICES)

The out gone years 2019 to 2021 epitomised the necessity for individuals and organizations to intentionally retool themselves in order to face the challenges of the New Normal to meet organisational goals and objectives. Corporate organisations and individuals have been challenged in a new way on the need to refocusing our perception, leveraging the technology to run our daily business to meet the demand for organizational and individual's professional growth.

There is need for conscious and regular capacity building and skills acquisition development to form an integral part of the strategic plan of date to date running of an organisation during and after this period of coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic which has changed the nature of work drastically and significantly modified the skills required to perform optimally in the current reality. It is therefore the time to formalise capacity building through involvement of online activities and incorporate them to our way of life by developing strategies to attain sufficient knowledge on digital revolution for efficient delivery of value to stakeholders.

It must be noted that our immediate response to the emerging trend and the global demand for physical distancing is to develop remote way of delivering value in an organisation through technological advancement. The seamless transition to a hybrid of physical and virtual activities would enable any organization cumulative investment in technological infrastructure over the years to strengthen the human capital management and assist an organization transmission to digital advancement. Therefore, organizations elearning platform is to be reinvigorated to meet the lifelong learning needs to give room for other opportunity to digitally develop other areas that required remodelling to meet modern day organisation full digitalization.

The contents of the management manual and other activities of an organisation must be significantly restructured to appeal and meet various diverse stakeholders and audience's needs. Organization must carefully consider the skills and competencies that remain highly priced, against the backdrop of peculiar changes in job delivery to satisfy it clients. Particular attention must be given to the requisite skills that would make an organisation remain in business and market-fit for future-readiness. In the development of the scheme for the workflow of staff, conscious effort must be made to distill and incorporate germane competent and relevant skill to meet the need of different sectors of the economy. Organisation must understand the dynamics needs across sectors as differ and this understanding must be greatly reflected in the structuring of the various skills required. Organisation must provide excellent trainings for their staff to be able to cope with challenges in order to support career development by providing an enabling platform for quest for lifelong learning of various categories of staff.

In Conclusion, in the words of Henry Ford encapsulate the primacy of continuous learning – "Anyone who stops learning is old – whether this happens at twenty or at eighty. Anyone who keeps on learning not only remains young but becomes constantly more valuable – regardless of physical capacity". Once again, I encourage all organizations to brace up to these challenges in order to remain relevant in the new way of doing business by developing the rich, contemporary and competitive market.

PROWAN

PROWAN SEMINAR ENGAGES INTEGRATION OF WOMEN'S ROLES IN NATION BUILDING

The Women Wing of ANAN, Professional Women Accountants in Nigeria (PROWAN) has called for the advancement of gender equality through women's leadership.

This formed the crux of discourse at her 2022 Annual Seminar, themed, "Gender Mainstreaming in Nation Building: Why it matters for Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)" on Friday 29th April, 2022 in Abuja.
